

SYDNEY HEAD

THE PRINCE OF WALES AT A HOUSE.—The crowned house which "Lee Huguemont" attracted last evening is one of the great proofs of the popularity of this magnificent composition. The theatre was crowded to the very top of the galleries, and many who could not find seats scarcely observed the play. Madame Rocci appeared in her former character of the Princess of Wales, and her performance was one of her greatest efforts; she was in excellent humor and gave all the effect to the part that her acknowledged ability and her perfect command of the French language afforded. Her singing was of an undeniable reputation; and although criticism is obtained on a cold, she was extremely effective, and many an aria was sung with a full and true expression, with a fine accompaniment—with great taste. The scene with the Prince and scene with Valeriano, at the close of the enthusiastic applause, and well before the curtain, and the words "The effects of the Prince Donna and himself." The composition is not that in which Signor Antonio might be expected to excel, but it is a fine piece, and his "Marcel" was by no means ineffective. It proved that the public estimation of his powers is not so fully deserved, and when it is considered that he was considerable interest in the character of Miss Warden was to be expected. Miss Warden was not only a representative of the Queen; but ladies indeed of the first rank of the opera, and Mr. De Haas, part of "St. Brisk," Messrs Sutcliffe and Baker, as "De Vilers," and the Huguenot Soldiers, also excited favorable remarks. The dancing that followed was very attractive, and little to be desired. The opera was mounted in a most complete style—good scenery, appropriate costumes, and the dancing that could render the tableaux complete and attractive.

ST. VINCENT'S HOSPITAL.—The ball in aid of the funds of charity will take place this evening, at the Masonic Hall, at 8 o'clock.

Excellency the Earl of Belmore, and of her ladyship the Countess of Belmore. As the list of stewards includes the names of the noble and the noble lady, and a large number of tickets have been sold, the ball likely will be one of the most brilliant of the season. The arrangements, however, are not yet completed.

FOOTBALL CLUB.—Following the names of the friends and admirers of athletic sports in Melbourne, where there is a great interest in those sports, appear to excite a good deal of popular interest.

last Thursday evening at McGrath and Punch's Hotel, to establish a Sydney Football Club. The greatest unanimity prevailed, and the club was organized. The members were quickly enrolled. It is proposed to play the first match on Saturday, either with the University or the Military and Naval Club.

ACCIDENT.—William Wilson, bailiff, was yesterday riding through Newtown, when he had the misfortune to fall from his horse and break one of his legs. He was brought in to the Infirmary, where he is now lying.

ACCIDENT.—Early on Wednesday morning several persons riding on the New Line train, were astonished by being suddenly thrown from their seats by a collision with Mr. Vines' train; and Mr. Hill, the toll-gate keeper, and others, proceeded to a creek which crossed the road in the direction of the collision. They found an old man, named Jeffreys, who has for many years been a resident of the Halfpenny Free Press narrates that Jeffreys was going late at an unreasonable hour and fell into the creek, and not being able to get out, he called for assistance. When taken from the creek it was found that he had sustained some severe injuries: he was taken home, and the doctor was called. The doctor, after examining and the doctor's residence about 4 1/2 miles in the direction of the creek, and the doctor proceeded at once to visit the injured man. He tion above the ankle; the fracture of the tibia a distance of the leg from the knee protruded through the skin, and so it could not be replaced the doctor took off a piece of the external skin, and the bone was exposed. The patient has since been progressing as well as could be expected.

THE ACCIDENT.—Mr. Remick, storekeeper and post master of O'Connell, met with an accident on Tuesday evening last, which was since proved fatal. It appears that he was riding his horse through the city on Tuesday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock; he was seen on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and on reaching Mr. Corwille's public-house, Ketter, Mr. Remick, who was riding a grey horse, was riding a grey, with the view of leading the horse he had previously ridden. He shortly afterwards left Corwille's, and proceeded to the residence of his wife, Mrs. Remick, in West, where, who were driving in a buggy on the road. When half-way down the long hill one of the ladies saw a hat flying through the air, and she thought she identified as Mr. Remick's, but as it was not his, she did not say so. On, and soon afterwards the horse alighted at some one lying by the roadside. Dr. Macneil and Mr. Warren were driving in a carriage at the time, and when they saw the horse, they shortly came to the spot, and on getting out found that Mr.

Kennick had been thrown from his horse and dragged some 100 feet down the road, and the coroner's jury examined him, and would have taken him in the way to Bathers, but that his horses were restive, and they could not get them into the vehicle. A person named Shaw, residing at Olney, was called to the aid of Mr. Kennick, the doctors requested him to stay with him while they drove quickly to Keokuk and saw to the injuries of the man. He was taken to the Club House Hotel, that evening, and lingered until Thursday afternoon, when he died. The coroner's jury returned their verdict at 10 o'clock. After the inquiry was closed, and the jury had returned their verdict, Mr. Griffiths came into the room stating that he had been present at the scene of the accident, and if he could state any particulars about the accident or the cause of death, he said he could not; but he was present at the Club House when deceased was taken there, and was the first to see him when he arrived. He said that he did not discuss that night. He said that when he noted deceased when he was after he was undressed and the doctor, he implied, that he was not responsible for the accident. He said that he did not see the accident, and that the doctor did not seem to think there was anything the matter with him. He said that he appeared very indignant because the doctor had not revealed his name.

when he was brought to Bathurst, as he thought he should have done. Mr. Shaw said he stayed with deceased the night before last, and that he was not present during the time during which time he did not appear to be sensible, although he spoke two or three times and called him by name once or twice. He said that he was not present when deceased perished with cold, and as no person came for Mr. Kemick he thought he had better go himself for assistance. He said that he was not there until shortly afterwards met the cart driver, Mr. Rivett. From the evidence of the witnesses at the inquest, it appears that after Shaw left Mr. Kemick he must have got up and crossed over the fence and then returned to the cart. The deceased's remains were taken to his own residence yesterday afternoon and will be buried at the Catholic burial place this morning.

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED.—On Monday last, a magisterial inquest was held at the residence of Mr. J. A. Tait, J.P., on the body of a child named William Macquarie, who had been found drowned in the Macquarie river. From the evidence, says the Dubbo Dispatch, it appeared that the child had been playing on the banks of the river, and slipping in accidentally, was drowned. Deceased had been left by his

A decision in accordance with the above sentence was given.

SIX DAYS QUESTION.—We trust (writes the Western Farmer) our farmers are not going to let this matter sleep, but that active and energetic measures will be taken to effect the introduction into the district of an advantageous system of irrigation, which would greatly benefit their cultivation. Members of the Farmers' Society can now be supplied with seed, gratis, in such quantities as will enable them to grow crops of wheat and corn, and we will whilst every available information as to the cultivation will be supplied from the same source. Other districts are entertaining the matter, and prosecuting the cultivation of alfalfa, and it is probable that some of our neighbors have been devoted to its culture, and considerable trouble and expense have been incurred in trenching the ground and planting alfalfa seed. It is very probable that much experience have been brought to bear in the matter. When there is indication that sufficient roots will be produced, the machinery for its conversion into sugar will soon be erected.

PLEURO-PNEUMONIA.—Mr. J. Wario, of Warrenton, writes to the editor of the Moscow Herald, on the 18th inst., that he has observed several cases of pleuro-pneumonia; and is very desirous of moving the progress of pleuromy runs, I had to reform them first on the flat almost immediately after the start of the race. I was in the school where Mr. Hill dropped a diseased bull, which died. My stockmen found four of my heifers diseased, all in the immediate vicinity; they were killed and examined by Mr. Hill, and the carcasses were buried. I was told that their carcasses were burnt. Mr. Powick did not find diseased cattle elsewhere on the run. As cattle are difficult to handle, I have been obliged to keep them in the middle of the spring, but in the interim to keep a sharp look-out, and kill and burn all diseased cattle. Grain being very scarce about the spring, I have been obliged to keep the cattle spread there as in paddocks where the sward is thick and continuous and the cattle feed close after each other. From these last circumstances I attribute the great loss in milking cattle to the disease. I have not been able to get any more. I had a letter from my super about a week ago; he had then discovered no new cases.

THE HON. MEMBER FOR CANTON.—A Cassin's cow, of the trustees of the Newmarket racecourse, and the stewards of the late May race was held, for the Great Northern Hunt last evening, reports the Pilot, as the grounds of derivation some of the names of the horses. The trustees of the racecourse were willing to do all that was required by the meeting, and it will no doubt be seen in a few days that

CHINESE SHOOTING-PIER.—The war between the Chinese and European shotguns (says the Young Correspondent of the Burrows Express) is likely to be continued longer than was at first anticipated. The Mosses, without having set a sweeping example of reduction in their price, and, it is said, have determined to bring "Johns" to a proper sense of commercial dealings. The Chinese, on their part, laugh defiantly, alleging that they will maintain their ground, will reduce a scale lower than their European brethren; and so the battle will go on until time shall show which is the stronger of the two.
